Letter of Recommendation

We recommend Alexander Cesar and his company AXIA Digital Ltda. without reservation. From June 2025 to July 2026, AXIA delivered frontend development for our client OPTEN AG (Dübendorf, Switzerland) under our quality assurance and technical guidance at Noevu — and I personally worked with Alexander almost every day, so this recommendation rests on close, first-hand experience.

Alexander is that rare professional genuinely fluent in both design and development, built over a career at multinational corporations and in leading teams. Engaged as a Senior Frontend Developer, he delivered across a strikingly wide surface — React Native and Expo on mobile, complex Angular interfaces, data-visualisation views, and a full AI-driven chat application — contributing to an AI-powered B2B voice-ordering app, a customer-portal platform, a workplace-safety heatmap for an industrial client, and a national sports platform.

He has a designer's eye for detail, writes clean, well-architected code, and thinks in reusable, maintainable systems. He handled the harder parts of native mobile calmly — audio recording, permission flows, navigation and modals — kept pace with modern Angular including Signals, and kept his work mobile-first, responsive and true to the design.

A committed self-learner and early, systematic adopter of AI, he took a professional Angular course on his own initiative and works with a professional English teacher to keep sharpening his communication. He communicates proactively, takes feedback on board, and delivers reliably and independently — and OPTEN steadily entrusted AXIA with more work to complete on its own.

Beyond the work, he is loyal, honest, always on time, and a genuine pleasure to collaborate with — conscientious, kind, and with a sunny character that lifts a team. We recommend Alexander Cesar and AXIA Digital wholeheartedly for senior frontend engineering, and are happy to answer any questions in person.

Kind regards,
